THE SPIEL

OPEN DAY 2009 REGISTRATION LEAFLET

It's back!

And we're not talking global recessions or Rod's ponytail (although he IS trying to grow it!).

We're talking Vacuum Truck Supplies Open day 2009.

For those who have attended the open days in the past, you will know that we only hold it once every two years, and this time around we're going to be bigger, better, and more hands on than ever before. We don't want to sit around all day talking and putting you guys to sleep, so we gonna have working displays, pump rebuilds and a host of other stuff that you'll be able to play around with. For those who have not attended a past open day, this is a great opportunity for you to meet other people who are in the game, and discuss all things pumping with them, what better way to increase your business and profit than sharing ideas with fellow pumpers??

As usual, the bus will be running down to Tullamarine airport Friday morning for a 12:00pm pick up, so if you're flying down, be sure to organise your flights accordingly. It's also imperative that you contact VTS to book a seat on the bus, as spots will be limited.

Friday Arvo will be at the Alzburg resort, Mansfield, where it will be the usual meet and greet, a couple of truck displays and a Barbie dinner. From there, it's only a couple of blocks from the pubs etc, for those who are brave enough to kick on.

Saturday morning will be at Club VTS from 9:30am for registration and a cuppa for a 10:00am sharp start.

During the day Saturday, we'll be wandering around the site, checking out the latest and greatest gear in pumping, talking to the guys who are experts in pumping products, some trade stands and a few other surprises.

We'll give you a feed around lunchtime and then back into it.

Saturday evening is dinner & drinks, and besides building the best vacuum trucks, we're also pretty good when it comes to throwing a bash, so we'll be hitting the Deck Restaurant and Bar for a feed, some live entertainment and a night to kick back and relax after a hectic day at VTS.

Sunday Morning, those who need to catch a flight will jump on the bus back to Tullamarine Airport, and those who are able to hang around will be invited to participate in the "Club VTS 2009 Open Day" golf challenge.

You won't be disappointed if you show up this year, that's for sure. As this is an exclusive event, spots are limited and early registration is a must. So fill in this form, get the credit card off the missus (the boss) and get back to us ASAP.

The team at Club VTS.
